Executive Director's Confirmation of Support

Our experience with the Racial Justice Institute (RJI) confirms that organizational support is critical to success in the RJI. Such support includes allowing adequate time for cohort members to participate in all online activities and work on equity team projects with fellow cohort members. We are confident that your program's investment in the RJI will begin to bear fruit even during the seven months of formal programming; the impact of this investment will be even greater as your organization and team members begin to institutionalize practices that support racial equity work going forward. Sign below to acknowledge your organizational commitment to support applicant's participation in RJI and join us for the below webinar to learn more about RJI.
